Learning Opportunity

Participants of this session will gain the knowledge and tools you need to improve student motivation and success. The session will support you in improving student and teacher relationships, build a positive and trusting classroom culture, improve the school culture and strives to offer you a more fulfilling and less stressful work environment.

Participants of Fostering Engagement will learn:- Important findings from key research on motivation and engagement and how to apply them in the classroom.

- Over 20 practical, classroom-ready strategies that will increase your students' engagement and motivation. The six factors (that you CAN influence) that impact student engagement and motivation and which of the six has the biggest impact.
- One thing you can do now that is 3x more likely to help students succeed (And it doesn't take any extra time!)
- The one thing every student has experienced that NEGATIVELY impacts motivation and learning - and what you can do about it!

Presenters

Erik Cliff

Erick Cliff is a strategic Project Coordinator with Communications by design for almost 10 years. He works with school district administrative teams and teacher groups to develop their instructional technology vision and plan which could involve instructional practices, skills for students, end-user devices, classroom technology, and district-wide online programs. When he is not working he enjoys being outdoors, camping with his family all year rounds, he even camp's in the winter for Boy Scout activities.

Zach Ripley

Zach Ripley is a Professional Learning Consultant with Communications by Design since 2016. He supports teachers in instructional practices and technology integration through facilitating group events, 1:1 coaching, and the development of resources. Outside of work, he likes spending time with his family (wife Andi and sons Miles and DJ) or running. He also enjoys reading and writing fiction of myriad sorts.
